

Malakai, taking the lead, moved forward steadily, his eyes fixed on the angels ahead, a small smile of wonder on his lips, Beriah stayed right beside him, eyes wide with astonishment as he glanced up at the angels. Neither of them spoke; they were in awe of the comforting light and peace that surrounded them.