

Malakai and Beriah walked happily along the path, talking and laughing as the sun warmed their faces. God had guided them before, and they felt peaceful knowing He was with them again.