

As they stood quietly, Malakai remembered something God had taught them before.

They didn't need to understand everything—they just needed to trust.

Beriah took Malakai's hand.

“Let's trust God together.”